

I believe there is great value in FM translator service as opposed to LPFM service. One of my favorite radio stations is K-Love, broadcast out of California. This radio station provides a great service to my local community as it is only one of two Christian radio stations available. K-Love is important to our community because it provides music that is friendly for the whole family. Before K-Love came to Austin, there were not many choices available for me to listen to with my teenage girls in the car, or at home. I was constantly relying on CD's to ensure the content of the music was appropriate. The availability of radio stations to broadcast nationally is very important. Displacing them with LPFM stations only would not be in the public's best interest. Keeping the current FM translator will ensure that the public continues to have access to a broad range of music, no matter where it is broadcast from.
